“Been There Markers” now offered at Zion National Park Bookstores

We are pleased to announce that Zion National Park is the latest to join the family of NPS parks and hike/bike trails that carry the “Been There Markers” in its Visitor Center.

The interpretive Markers are custom designed in cooperation with park staff showcasing the park’s history, culture and trails.

Hand-made of solid Cherry, the elegant Markers are collectibles; providing parks, monuments or battlefields with a multi-faceted product suitable not only for sales at the Visitor Center stores but for fundraising drives and recognition “Thank You” for volunteers.

The Markers rolled out in September of 2016 to great reviews at select Trails and National Park Service Visitors Centers along the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal.

The company is a veteran and woman owned business producing premium hand-made specialty wood products for 15 years. “It is nice to offer a 100% Made in America collectible product to Parks and Trails nationwide that assist them in generating monies,” said partner Terry Lee.

“We are excited about the growth since the launch and look forward to working closely with the custodians of our nation’s Parks and Trails,” added “Been There Markers” partner, Peter Pihos, Jr.
